

Wednesday, 2 October 2019

MEDIA RELEASE

Dateline: Sydney, NSW Oct 2019 – Bellinger Instruments P/L initiates a name change to Bellinger Systems P/L.

Bellinger Instruments was owned by a sole owner who had created and supported Bellinger Instruments for over 52 years.

During that time Bellinger Instruments became a vital cog in the support of defence equipment and systems that would otherwise have been replaced due to a lack of OEM Support. Bellinger Instruments took great pride in the 75+ apprentices who have passed through it's training program delivering high quality individuals, many who remain with the new company and others who have branched out to other elements of the defence industry.

It is with great pride that these individuals now step up to manage and continue the legacy that was Bellinger Instruments under the newly renamed Bellinger Systems.

Bellinger Systems continues to conduct its operations out of the original facility and contact details remain unchanged. Bellinger Systems is focused on the design and development of leading edge communication technologies whilst continuing support of existing industry related customers.